

Internship at digital mental health start-up (40-60%)

The young start-up Therayou, based in Basel and Zurich, stands for innovative, easily accessible and evidence-based digital mental health. Our interdisciplinary team is highly experienced in the start-up and healthcare sector. Together, we want to facilitate access to high-quality psychotherapy. Mental health is a major concern for all of us. Currently there is a mismatch between the increasing need and available services in mental health care. Therefore, we are in the process of building new, innovative, and evidence-based digital and blended services for people with mental disorders.

For our start-up we are looking for an intern (m/f/d) 40-60% for 6-12 months starting immediately or by appointment.

Your tasks:

- Development, adaptation, and testing of new technologies, such as Virtual Reality, Augmented Reality, and Smartphone Applications for mental health care needs
- Support of setup of a physical outpatient center based in Basel
- Support of various projects within the start-up, including planning and development
- Support in collaboration with international partners
- Literature research
- Organisation of presentations, events, and meetings
- Other administrative tasks

Your profile:

- Students in psychology, game design, computer science, mathematics, statistics, medicine, economics, or related studies; Master's level desired.
- Strong interest in digital and blended health as well as start-up companies
- Good German, English, and computer skills
- Analytical thinking, good organisational skills and open-minded personality
- High willingness to learn, independent working style, and team work skills
- Open-mindedness and pleasure in dealing with people
- Strong service orientation

Our offer:

- Insight into the start-up world and networking with various players from the fields of business, politics, and health
- Opportunity to work in a dynamic and interdisciplinary team
- Opportunity to gain skills in digital health and business management
- International cooperation with different companies in the field of digital health
- Flexible working hours, home office possible
- Diverse and rewarding work in a start-up environment
- Exciting development and training opportunities
- Family-friendly personnel policy

For further information, please contact Anja Blaser (she/her) by e-mail (info@therayou.ch). We look forward to receiving your complete application by e-mail as one single PDF. Only complete applications will be considered, including a cover letter with details of when you will be available for the internship, a curriculum vitae in tabular form, high school marks, university transcripts, work references, and, if applicable, details of employer's references. The application deadline is 15 June. Later applications will be considered until the position is filled. Please let us know about the wished pensum and the possible starting date.